ABSTRACT

In the 18th years of our young but thriving democracy, several programmes were established to improve access to health care for disadvantaged groups in South Africa. Although numerous studies have been conducted examining trends on access to health care, considerable controversy remains. Nearly all authors concur that important progress has been made, and that gaps in access to health care narrowed considerably. Some however, go further and conclude that the evidence indicates that all significant gaps have been eliminated and access to health care is universally shared. Evidence on access to health care has important policy implications. If the task of assuming access to health care has been largely accomplished, further expansion of South African health care programmes to promote access would be unwarranted. If selected population groups lag behind others in access to health care, targeted policies to close remaining gaps may be warranted. The introduction of the National Health Insurance Scheme call for the health reform in South Africa and it will change the whole health sector and offers equal benefits on access to quality health care services to everyone in South Africa.

DEDICATION

This work is dedicated to the late Mphahlele Samuel Shai (1986-2010) who although ambitious passed away before achieving his dreams and sharing his brains with the world.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Thanks are due foremost to my supervisor, Adv. Lufuno Tokyo Nevondwe, without whose careful guidance, astute comments, patience and kind words, the completion of my mini-dissertation would have been far more difficult. My special thanks also go to the University of Limpopo, former Director of the School of Law Prof. J.L.H Letsoalo, School of Law Administration staff, in particular Mrs. T.D Manamela, Mrs. M Sethole, Mrs. M Moutlana, Mrs. S Thubane, Mr. H.S Baloyi and Mrs. R.J Mokoala.

In addition I would like to thank Mr. Maishe Isaiah Bopape, who played an important role in providing guidance in the early stages of my LLM studies, and Mr. Selby Manthata, Mr. Punky Manthata for their financial assistance in my LLM. The encouragement and support of all my friends, especially Adv. K.R Sebola and Adv. N Matloga, who were always near me and gave me courage in the dark days.

My appreciation also goes to my family, my mother Phasha Modjadji Grace, my sister Phasha Thabiso Veronica, my younger brother Phasha Tshepo Cavin.

Not forgetting my two nieces, Phasha Mokokobale Rana, Sebata Khomotso Rebecca and one nephew, Sebata Nkhehlane William.

Most of all I thank God almighty, who gives without limits and nurtures endlessly.
