ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The writing of a research is a difficult task, which requires time, effort and commitment. I would like to thank all the wonderful people who made a contribution to the successful writing of this study. These include my family, friends and colleagues whose ideas and support cannot be undermined. To my colleagues some of the help was to some extent a service well beyond the call of duty. I am grateful to everyone who contributed both officially and unofficially to inspiring me to accomplish my vision.

My supervisor, Mr Sam Choshi, for continually reminding me to get out of the way, because ‘I alone could do nothing”, I truly could not complete this without you.

I would also like to thank the project members from both villages involved for their co-operation without which this study would not have been successful. May God bless all of you guys.
DEDICATION

I dedicate this dissertation to all rural communities in the Limpopo Province who are involved in Sustainable Livelihoods Programmes and those who would like to implement the Sustainable Livelihoods Programme in future.
